

From the Pastor

As Jesus magnified the law (giving the spiritual intent) He addressed the letter of several commands and instructions which had been commanded before. These statements begin with some version of “You have heard that it was said to those of old...” Then the letter of what was commanded before is given. Following this statement of the letter Jesus gives the spiritual aspect of the command or instruction. The spiritual aspect reveals the right thoughts and the motives that should issue forth from our hearts.

These spiritual aspects reveal some quality of God’s own mind of love—the way God is. If we are to become like Jesus Christ then these motivations of the heart must be what we are striving to have—the way we are striving to become ourselves. Therefore, not only should the outside look good; but, the inward man—what issues from our hearts—must also be righteous. Our motivations must also be pleasing to God. This bears repeating. We must ask ourselves, “Are our thoughts as righteous as the appearance we are striving to present?”

The next statement of Jesus is directed to men, but, it applies to women as well. “You have heard that it was said to whose of old, ‘You shall not commit adultery.’ But I say to you that whoever looks at a woman to lust for her has already committed adultery with her in his heart.” (Matthew 5:27-28)

This is another clear example showing that the spirit of the law deals with what is happening in the mind and heart whether there is a wrong act or not. Christ’s words speak to the absolute fidelity (faithfulness) that a husband (or wife) should have to their mate—not just in body, but also, in spirit—in mind and heart.

However, this also applies to those who are not married. What is occupying the thoughts of those who are single? This society with its TV shows, movies, advertising, literature, and even its news emphasizes attitudes, approaches, and lifestyles that are contrary to Godly principles.
